VOL. XV.

CLOVERPORT, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, 1891.

NO. 47.

Washington Notes.

Were any thing necessary to remind us of Kentucky in general, and of the little town in particular that nestles so magnificently amid the hills on the banks of the Ohio, perhaps this first anniversary of my arrival in this beautiful capital would furnish the necessary reminder.
But fortunately, I need no reminder other than an attachment to that soil which must ever be more sacred by some degree than any other. Not a driveling, sickly sentimentality finding expression in childish whinnies to engage in the same boyish sports and follies that once furnished amusement; not a foolishly discontent with present surroundings, because lacking necessarily in some of the conditions that make one's home dear to him; not a provincial fastidious prejudice that think one to all the commendable characteristics of other people as well as the shortcomings of one's own—this, I trust, is not the nature of my attachment to the place where I live. But, on the other hand, I hope it is a hearty, sincere attachment that, despite enforced separation, makes her streams clearer, her skies brighter, her flowers richer and sweeter in perfume, and above all, her people by a little truer and warmer-hearted than any other. This only in seeming? Very well, then, the devotion being perfect, it can in nowise diminish that pleasure which comes to her from her position as a livelihood far from her borders when memory sweeps the harp-strings of old associations.

A Broken Revere.

By N. C. Mosley.
A silver moonbeam on a summer night Crept solitarily into my lonely room, Laundered and washed by pure, transparent light "Dazzlingly bright," "solid and gleam." It lingered upon the pillow, its bright glow Of pure celestial beauty over all It came there, and as the moon sank low It crossed the floor and reached the father, And then the moonbeam slowly moved Away.
And as it rose it shed a brilliant light Upon a picture that, a lovely sight, Whose gentle beauty in the still of night Seemed but the presence of some Christian Grief.
The features, lighted with a sunny smile In shades that artist hands could not portray, Seemed there only, where the smile, Sweet made them more, and then the moonbeam Moved away.
Methought, while gazing on the beautiful sight Some friend, some joy departed had returned, And in the beauty of that glowing light Could read the thoughts that in my heart Lay hid.
And as I was left alone, bereft, deserted, A solitary, lonely cloud of sorrow
And I was left alone, bereft, deserted,
A solitary, lonely cloud of sorrow
And I was left alone, bereft, deserted,
A solitary, lonely cloud of sorrow

The First Step.

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a Nerve Tonic and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great Nerve Tonic and Alternative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the Liver and Kidney resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c. at G. W. Short, Cloverport, Ky., and J. A. Witt, Hardinsburg, Ky.

For It In a Horn.

For perspicuous language, absolutely clear, transparent, translucent expression of ideas, commend us to the new constitution. When it says a thing it means that—or something else. So we have no doubt about the matter. We are only expected to pay our money and take our choice, and when there is free choice there is free speech, and where free speech, free people. And that's the kind of people the constitution was made for. Our boasting shall not be in vain, and the result is the instruction. Section 101 provides for the election of commonwealth's attorneys, circuit clerks, county clerks, sheriffs, jailors, etc. Section 102 declares that "no persons shall be eligible to the offices mentioned in Section 101 who is not at the time of his election . . . a citizen of Kentucky and who has not resided . . . one year in the county next preceding his election." Now to a mindless head what the thing is plain. Mark the use of the limiting adjective "the"—the county? That means the best county in the State.
Surely no one doubts what county that is. According to the general consensus of opinion, freely and boldly expressed by all our candidates for reelection to county offices, Lincoln is entitled to that honor. Hence, it follows that if the commonwealth's attorneys in the State—there will be about 32, all told—must be taken from Lincoln county.
And that's why we are for the new constitution—in a horn—Interior Journal.

sensitive of the best thought of a body numbering among its members some of the ablest men of the state. If the discussion, which should be exhaustive, bears out the presumption that it is a materially better improvement over the old, Democrats and Republicans should stand shoulder to shoulder in its support. This I fully believe will be the result—else I misconceive the character of Kentucky voters.

Washington D. C. June 15, 1891.

They plotted her fate and plotted her head, And waited her back till their snoring and Tried to kill her, but she was not to be killed. (Though grand old Uncle Sam was not "nervous")
The poor woman thought she must certainly die.

"The Farmer's Prescription" she happened to try—
No wonder his praise so loudly they speak: His great better at once, and was well in a week.

The torturing pains and distressing nervousness which accompany, at times, certain forms of female weakness, yield like magic to Dr. Fiebert's Favorite Prescription. It is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and adapted to the delicate organization of women. It allays and subdues the nervous symptoms and restores the pain-suffering patient to her troubles. (Guaranteed printed on bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.)

The Wicked Boy

Teacher—The lesson this morning is, When your father and mother forsake you then the Lord will take you up.
Wicked Dickey Hicks—Spoken with denial. I. H. Herald.

Sleep does not always visit those racked with a cough and the great remedy "C. C. C. Certain Cough Cure" is taken and the cough cured. Sold by J. W.
Owen.

Some ancient dame is crying near graves about kissing. She declares that it is dangerous; that scarlet fever and other things are transmitted by oscula-tion. Well, what of it? Kissing is a popular institution, and no amount of grunting by disappointed old maids is going to boycott it. If it were proven that kissing brought on inflammatory rheumatism, gonorrhea, Bright's disease, phthisis, scarlet fever or the mumps, the kisser would go bravely after the kiss with his old time vigor, and the old maids could still sit in their corners and prepare larders for the wounded.—Bx.

You are out nothing if you get a bottle of "C. C. C. Certain Cough Cure" from J. W. Owen, and if it does not cure your Child and Fever. It is guaranteed.

Things We Would Like to Know.
Why women kiss each other.
Why politicians are not more plentiful.
Why fat folk want to be lean and lean folk want to be fat.
Why some millionaires keep on accumulating more money.
Why some doctors who denounce salugery like to see their names in print.
Why property owners don't put down new brick pavements in place of the old rough stone ones, that are a constant eye sore to pedestrians.
Why the monarch sits.

The Third Party Paragraph.
Philadelphia Item—The People's party platform make a loud call for money.
About election time the loud call will rise to a shriek.

party platform the letter if not the spirit has been: Let us have Pa.
Philadelphia Times—Close students of history say that the first trouble caused by a third party movement is the disunion of the party.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat—Jerry Simpson walked the plank of the People's party platform voluntarily, and he and the party have left each other to their fate.
St. Paul Globe—A cipher dispatch on

Chicago Inter-Ocean—Suppose that the third party by placing tickets in the field endangers Kansas, Iowa and Ohio in 1892, who would be benefited? No menaced. The scheme will be to throw the election into the hands, where there will be but one solution.

Hon. John O. Rhea will speak at Hardinsburg, July 4th.

L. GRAMMAN & Co., boot and shoe dealers, of Louisville, have made an assignment.

The President has appointed the Judges for the Land Court, two of the five being Democrats.

APPAHEE have made an inventory of the estate of P. T. Barnum, showing it to be worth $47,520.52.

Mr. Myers is successfully answering all the arguments of Mr. Harned and doing it purely from a Democratic standpoint.

Since the Decoration Day episode at Whitesville, the people of that place have organized a police force for self protection.

Secretary Foster has held another conference with the President in reference to the bond issue. His conclusion was reached, though the Secretary advocated the extension at 2 per cent.

Hon. Thos. S. Pettit, of Daviess county, who has been long in Kentucky, and been honored with high positions from his party, now decries and accepts the "People's Party" nomination for Representative.

It is stated that the States agreed with the banks at Frankfort in now overdraw about $350,000, and before June 1, the overdraft will be $500,000. The overdraft will be made up from the taxes of the next fiscal year.

Prof. McHenry Rhodes, of Hartford College, has been appointed superintendent of schools in the city of Frankfort. There is a desire on a part of the people of Hartford that Prof. W. B. Haygood be elected superintendent of the college there.

A WORKER that is good enough for one place is good enough for all in a campaign. Our anti-Democratic friends have doubtless learned that a candidate had best stick to a principle, be it ever so weak. Democratic doctrine at one point and Republican at another don't average.

Why should there be any talk about the Alliance supporting its candidate, when it has been admitted repeatedly that it is no candidate? As an organization it refused to name a candidate on account of constitutional restrictions, and it is not worth while to try to establish claims on the Wheeler vote this late in the season.

The Haverhill Herald says: "A lunacy suit against Eli Pullman was filed before Judge Wiley yesterday, and the jury found him of unsound mind. The young man is a nephew of Judge Pullman, who is now serving a fourteen year sentence for killing James Miller, in Hardinsburg."

The speech of Chauncy M. Dewey upon the occasion of the moving of the Grant monument at Gettysburg, Pa., June 3d, is in every way characteristic of the greatest American orator. In its rhetorical construction, wealth of language and historical facts it is a gem. There are many admirers of Lee who can believe this sentence: "We are not yet far enough from the passions of the civil strife to do full justice to the genius of the general who commanded the rebel army."

It is the popular opinion that the tariff question is the only one between the two parties. While it is principal and sufficient there are others that the people should not lose sight of. The Fore Bill is not dead yet by any means, and Mr. Harrison is in much favor of it now as he was a year ago. The McKinley Bill is oppressive in its nature, but the Fore Bill is an outrage on our cherished rights and interests, and the people must not forget its importance as an issue of the campaign of 1902.

It would seem that our good friend and correspondent R. E. Woods is drifting into the old ruts, and that his associations in Washington have not improved his once progressive ideas of which he boasted before leaving his native birth. It is his opinion that the Fore Bill is not dead yet by any means, and Mr. Harrison is in much favor of it now as he was a year ago. The McKinley Bill is oppressive in its nature, but the Fore Bill is an outrage on our cherished rights and interests, and the people must not forget its importance as an issue of the campaign of 1902.

Under the new Constitution we are not have secured our machine shop or our brick plant. These enterprises that are so valuable to our town and its present prosperity have been made possible by the coming of the railroad. The brick plant especially was brought about and its establishment bore a close almost entirely to the McCrackens, who are the owners and operators of the railroad. Under the new Constitution they would be prohibited from investing their money in any local enterprise. Do we want a Constitution that prevents the development of our mineral resources? Do we want a Constitution that drives capital away from our towns and villages. We think not and so do the people.

PACIFIC AND THE PRESS CONVENTION

The meeting of the Press Convention at Paducah June 4th and 5th was one of the most pleasant meetings known in the history of the association. There were nearly a hundred members present many of whom were accompanied by their wives and daughters. The gates of the city were thrown wide open to them and their wives and the splendid greeting given them by the local press and the citizens generally will be a pleasant feature long to be remembered. Paducah is a beautiful city situated on a high plane on the west bank of the Ohio river, at the mouth of the Tennessee 10 miles below the mouth of the Cumberland, and not far from the Mississippi. Her streets and parks of gravel which is found in great abundance in close proximity to the city are marveled at beauty and smoothness. Paducah is proud of her streets and parks, and she has a right to be. In the matter of transportation very few cities exceed Paducah and her present prosperity and growth is due in a great measure to these excellent facilities. Five railroads already cross there and others are building. One line leads direct to the Atlantic at the splendid harbor of Newport News, another leads direct to the Gulf via New Orleans, and the Paducah, Tennessee and Alabama railroad is now rapidly building to Birmingham and the southeastern Atlantic coast.

The St. Louis and Paducah railroad, which is an excellent outlet to the north and north west. The Ohio and Mississippi railway is building its system into the city and when completed will give her a direct route to Chicago and the north. While the Decoration Day episode at Whitesville, the people of that place have organized a police force for self protection. Secretary Foster has held another conference with the President in reference to the bond issue. His conclusion was reached, though the Secretary advocated the extension at 2 per cent. Hon. Thos. S. One of our matrons had rather a funny experience not long since while making light bread. It raised so rapidly while she was kneading it that she had to call for assistance to hold it on the board until she could get it in the pans. This is not an advertisement for yeast nor an attempt to frighten.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Woodson's baby died Saturday night of cholera infantum, and was buried Sunday afternoon in the cemetery here. This is the fourth little one of Mrs. and Mr. Woodson have lost, and their cup of sorrow seems indeed full. They have the sympathy of a large circle of relatives and friends in their sad bereavement.

Little Jennie Fairchild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Fairchild, died at her home in Louisville Saturday night. Her death was caused by heart disease. She was just recovering from a severe attack of diphtheria and was in the Cave Hill cemetery Sunday afternoon. May "Ile who died all things well" comfort the stricken family.

Children's Day exercises at the Baptist church Sunday were replete with interest. The little folks were all dressed in training and gave their recitations in a manner that would have done credit to much older people. The musical program was well rendered. The decorations were very pretty. A large number of parents were present. Some had to stand during the exercises, the church was so crowded.

The "Pupils Rejoice" given by Mrs. H. P. Grinnell's pupils Friday evening, was quite a success in every particular, and a large audience greeted the performers. The court room was tastefully decorated with flowers and evergreens. Chief among the attractions of the evening were the happy faces of these "rosy-cheeked girls" who comprise Mrs. Grinnell's class. Master Charles Nevitt has the distinction of being the only male member, but was not less a credit to the class. His recitation was much complimented. Mrs. Grinnell is a teacher of long experience and ability and her pupils make rapid advancement. Her music lessons were given forward with pleasant anticipations. # THE CAMPAIGN.

Opens Up at Hardinsburg Last Monday. Judge Murray, Democrat, Makes a Splendid Speech. Followed by The Hon. Chas. Blair, Republican Candidate for Auditor.

DEMOCRATS ALL OVER THE COUNTY IN GOOD CHEER.

Judge J. A. Murray agreeable in appointment spoke at the Court House last Monday. The house was comfortably well filled, but the crowd was hardly so large as was expected. The Judge spoke about an hour and a half and had his thumb well in hand. He revived the history of the Democratic party from a time away back, and showed all along how it kept its faith to the people and to the country. He spoke of the tariff and alluded to it as the main burden upon the people today, and the main line that would come up before the two parties for discussion in 1892. He spoke of Reed's billion Congress, and the impostous Force Bill that was attempted to be thrust upon the people by the Republicans. There were no great bursts of enthusiasm in the Judge's speech, but it was a sound, sensible, well chosen argument and fitted the time and occasion.

He was followed by the Hon. Chas. Blair, Republican candidate for Auditor, who undertook to answer the Judge's argument, but who admitted in the outset that the Judge's speech was based on a different line of argument from that which he had anticipated. He could not therefore answer all the Judge had said. He stated things as a general proposition that the Republican party had accomplished more for the people of the country since 1860 than any political party that ever came into existence. This he did by citing figures, and the record that party had made before the country. The McKinley tariff bill and Mr. Reed's reciprocity treaty, was a master piece of modern legislation. These measures alone he thought enough to insure Republicans another victory in 92. Mr. Blair spoke fully an hour and a half. He wound up with a strong appeal to his brother Republicans not to desert their party and go off with the Wheelers. How much of his time he will devote to the canvass, Mr. Blair did not state, but he was on the ticket to stay and had not declined the nomination as had been reported.

There will be a big luncheon session and other attractive features. Everybody is coming and a glorious good time is waiting on the boards.

The candidate for the Legislature spoke last week at McMillan's, Hodgeville and Custer. It was not known that there would be any speaking until Mr. Severus reached McMillan where Mr. Harned changed his mind about the appointments and agreed with Mr. Severus to meet him on the stump at any point he could name. The frequent list of appointments are to be made later on and the speaking last week seemed to be for a kind of introduction for the candidates to the public. At all the points named the Democrats are in good spirits, and think they will pull their weight for the ticket. Dr. Harned is not going to create any revolution in the voting of the two old parties as his friends anticipated. The prejudice he undertakes to arouse among the farmers against the two old parties in favor of the Wheelers will show to come out. His arguments are not convincing and are based principally upon newspaper cuttings and other material scattered from the Wheel platform. Mr. Severus replies to the whole business by a plain sensible talk based upon Democratic theory. He tells the people what they will do if sent to the Legislature in the matter of framing laws for their government and denies that the things Dr. Harned alludes to can have any weight there whatever.
